INFORMATION LETTER

The Kazakh State Women's Pedagogical University with the support of the National Commission for Women and Family and Demographic Policy under the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan invites you to participate in the work of the Republican Symposium "The Role of Women's Organizations in the Prevention of Religious Extremism among Youth", which will be held on April 21, 2017 10.00).

The Symposium venue: Republic of Kazakhstan, Almaty, Gogol street, 114, 1st educational building, Assembly hall of the Kazakh state teacher training University Women's organizations in the life of modern society play a huge role, and in many aspects of activity have serious prospects. This is the real manifestation of gender equality and its embodiment in social and political life. It is undeniable that women's organizations do a great job in shaping the worldview of young people, their culture, patriotism, and citizenship. This is due to the fact that at the present stage of the development of the state, the President and society place great trust on the woman and the responsibility for the formation of a holistic worldview among the younger generation. On a larger scale, women's organizations have a significant influence on the place and role of women in the family.

Actual for the modern Kazakhstan society is the definition of a clear model of the relationship between women's organizations and families, the identification of existing problems in these processes, both in foreign countries and in Kazakhstan. So far, it remains a very difficult problem to identify the role and extent of influence of women's organizations on the religious views of young people. Especially in the context of how the family influences the factors involving a certain part of youth in various religious sects. In such cases, it is necessary to look for opportunities to establish systematic work of women's organizations with specific families that have fallen under the influence of destructive religious organizations and sects.

For the transformation of Kazakhstan into a successfully developing country, a necessary condition is the formation and upbringing of a young generation with a high spiritual culture. This requires deep research and analysis of the problems in question, both in the context of the scientific community and the entire people. In this regard, the main goal of the symposium is to raise and discuss the above problems, which require an innovative and creative approach and solution.

The main objectives of the Symposium are: Defining the role of women's organizations in the fight against religious extremism among young people. Prevention and the search for new ways in the sphere of this activity.

Tasks of the symposium:

- analysis of the experience of women's organizations in working with young people;
- search for new ways and methods of fighting against the influence of religious extremist ideas and trends;
- Identify the links of women's organizations with political and religious movements;
